Table of contents

Chapter 1 – Attractiveness definitions and issues ................................................. 11

Mainet H., Edouard J.-C. – Indicators of attractiveness of small towns: Issues of definition and criteria, based on French cases ................................................................. 13

Kwitcek-Soltys A., Wiedermann K. – Development factors and functional structures of border towns ........................................................................................................ 41

Areal T. – “Places of writing” and attractiveness. Study of medieval acts from Auvergne, between Dore and Allier rivers ................................................................. 59

Chapter 2 – Issues of quality of life and residential attractiveness: demographic changes ........................................................................................................ 75

Murzyń-Kupisz M. – Endogenous factors in turning heritage into an asset in local development. Recent experiences of small towns in Poland ........................................... 77

Cirnu L. – Residential changes in the Bucharest metropolitan area between 1990 and 2000. Small and medium sized towns as an alternative to the metropolis ................. 97

Runge A. – Medium sized towns in the structure of socio-economic relations in the conurbation of Katowice .................................................................................................. 115

Konecka-Szydłowska B. – Socio-economic situation of small towns of the Poznań agglomeration .............................................................................................................. 133

Filimon L., Nemeș V., Petrea R., Filimon C. – What place for the urban identity in the sustainable territorial development of Țara Beiușului (Beiuș Land, Romania) .......... 147
Szymańska W. – Housing attractiveness of the medium-sized cities in Pomerania in light of the decentralization theory ................................................................. 167

Chapter 3 – Functional changes: innovation and competitiveness .................. 185

Chaze M. – Commercial Relationships between Small Towns and their Rural and Regional Territories. A Case study of East-Central France ................................. 203

Ricard D., Epure G. – The attractiveness of secondary cities in Central Europe. Some elements of comparison between Romania and Slovakia. The case of Braila Area and the Upper Vâh River Valley ........................................... 231

Dorocki S., Jastrzębski J.P., Boguś M. – Biotechnology as an example of high technology development in small and medium towns ........................................... 249

Chapter 4 – the place of SMT in mobility and flows systems ........................... 267

Sitek S, Zuzanska-Zysko E. – Small towns in metropolitan Silesia region in the context of commuting to word ........................................................................... 269

Kihonge E. – Secondary towns and rural interactions in Eastern Africa: SMEs in small towns and rural economic growth ......................................................... 287

Racaud S. – Markets and urbanization in East African mountains: the role of flows in the organization of urban and spatial system (Uporoto Mountains, Tanzania) ......... 301

Bordagi J. – Labour circulations and small town growth in India. Comparison between Valavanur and Sholinganallur ................................................................. 315